On behalf of the IEA’s Board of Directors, we welcome you to the 2019 IEA Global Conference in Oakland, California. This conference marks the 25th Year Anniversary of the inauguration of the International Enneagram Association. This is the time to celebrate who we are as a community, what we have established and look towards an exciting future based on the good will and foundations that we have laid as a community.

We are grateful for this opportunity to gather as a community of fellow Enneagram teachers, professionals, and enthusiasts from around the world. This is the opportunity to meet new people, learn how others are using the Enneagram in their professional work and personal development, and reconnect with old friends and colleagues from around the globe. We know we have one thing in common—we all love the Enneagram and how it has helped to shape our lives in ways we perhaps never thought possible!

Through the generosity of our thriving community, we reached our target of $25,000 for the 25th Anniversary Conference Scholarship Fund. This gives us the opportunity to welcome many new faces to the Conference. Our recipients are from Egypt, Canada, Australia, Turkey, and Pakistan. We have many new “faces” at our conference in this our anniversary year, representing new voices, new perspectives, and new energy to the IEA and our Enneagram community.

In this, our 25th Anniversary year, we will be honoring the founders of the IEA and those who have helped advance the Enneagram throughout the world. This is a time to remember with gratitude, those who laid the foundations of our organization and have played significant roles in building our organization into the thriving community it is today through their vision and dedication to this transformative system we know as the Enneagram.

We have a lot on offer at this conference. Andrea Isaacs and Interplay will be helping us explore our somatic center of intelligence during the Pre-conference Day. Our Keynote Speaker, Chris Heuertz, will be challenging us to take the Enneagram out into the world to transform society. On Friday evening we will experience a unity panel discussion with Helen Palmer, Hameed Ali, Russ Hudson and Jessica Dibb, exploring ways to further our Inner Work. Finally, Claudio Naranjo will join us in person on Sunday afternoon, to reflect on the origins of the Enneagram and its place in the world moving forward.

Check our Conference App. Go to the app store and download it on your phone! You can locate the sessions you want to attend, connect with other Conference attendees, receive Conference announcements, provide real-time feedback on sessions and the Conference in general, and download Conference presenters’ handouts.

The IEA Board table is located in the Grand Ballroom foyer. We invite you to meet and chat with IEA Board members, ask questions about what the IEA Board is up to, learn about the IEA Accreditation process, provide feedback about Conference sessions, and share your ideas about what the IEA could further do to help you ‘learn and connect’.

Our thanks to all the presenters/speakers for coming to Oakland to share their knowledge, insights, and experience. Our thanks to each and every one of you for being here and being part of our IEA community. On a personal note we would like to thank and acknowledge our Board. As you are aware, this is a voluntary Board, and these men and women work tirelessly to make it the Organization we have today. We thank and acknowledge Brian Mitchell-Walker, Tina Tornell, Andrew Derkatch, Earl Wagner, Leslie Hershberger, Jan Shegda, Carla Smith, Bart Wendell, Montse Fernandez, Trent Thornley, and Claudia Nario. They bring dedication, time, energy and professionalism to their work on the Board. We’re honored and delighted to be working with them.

A huge thank you to the Conference Committee, led by Jan Shegda, Brian Mitchell-Walker, and Sandy Hatmaker. They have worked long and hard to make this Conference a rich and rewarding experience. The Conference theme, Foundations for the Future, is relevant to both our professional and personal work. Enjoy what is on offer! I believe you will leave transformed in some way by what you will experience.

Finally, let us reflect on the gift we have all been given in what we know as the Enneagram. When we use it with respect and integrity, it gives us the opportunity to recognize our real truth. May we remember the great insight from Marianne Williamson – ‘Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate. Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. It is our light, not our darkness that most frightens us... As we are liberated from our own fear, our presence automatically liberates others’.

May we continue to be liberated.
Welcome to the 2019 IEA Global Conference! We’re so glad you have joined us here in the lovely San Francisco Bay Area, where the IEA began 25 years ago. This will be a gathering to remember as we honor the last two and a half decades of history, learning, and development in the Enneagram.

We’ve come here to celebrate our 25 wonderful years together and look forward to our bright future as a community and the bright future of the Enneagram as our Foundation for the Future. Our preconference day will focus this conversation on the present by centering on the body. Andrea Isaacs will keynote our day and introduce the somatic work in the Enneagram community, followed by Oakland based Interplay who will lead us in tapping into our own somatic experience to do the work.

We will kick off the conference on Friday morning with keynote speaker Chris Heuertz, author of the Sacred Enneagram. In his work he will invite us to consider, what can we, who are the global Enneagram community, create together?

Throughout the conference we will be having receptions and parties to give us all a chance to renew old friendships and connections and to meet new colleagues and make new friends within the IEA community. The Welcome Reception on Thursday evening will give those of us who participated in the Pre-conference presentations a chance to talk it all over, as well as to greet the rest of you who will just be arriving for the conference.

For Friday night this year, we have a few options for you to enjoy. Join the Ennea-gagers for a local dinner in Oakland, or catch the free shuttle to Jack London Square along the water! Either option should give you plenty of time to be back for the two special evening options included with your conference registration - a panel of spiritual masters with Jessica Dibb and a late night podcasters panel with Chris Heuertz.

And then Saturday Night is our traditional Dance Party – with our favorite DJ, Russ Hudson – something every Enneagram enthusiast should experience in life. Plus, we will have drawings for raffle prizes and recognition of many of our volunteers and supporters through the years. Come dressed in silver (don’t worry, we will have props available if you have nothing silver to wear!) and celebrate with us.

We will wrap up our time together with our endnote interview with Claudio Naranjo and Jessica Dibb as we explore our shared Enneagram past.

On behalf of ourselves, Jan Shegda and Brian Mitchell-Walker as conference co-chairs, as well as our fellow Global Board of Directors, countless volunteers and speakers, thank you for joining us! We hope you enjoy the conference as much as we have enjoyed bringing it together.

We look forward to sharing these days with you, and please introduce yourself if we haven’t met! That goes for any of my fellow board members as well. It is our job to represent your wishes as a community and we take that seriously.

Here’s to a beautiful conference in Oakland!

P.S. In case you missed it - we’d love to see you in your best 25th anniversary wear for the Saturday night party! Wear silver, show up covered in 25’s, or as your normal self. We look forward to seeing you there.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

Friday, July 26 — 10:00am–11:30am
East 1

Chris Heuertz

Reflecting on the Future of the Enneagram

Keynote Speaker, Chris Heuertz, author of The Sacred Enneagram, will kick off the IEA 25th anniversary conference. Chris will encourage conference attendees to stay curious, explore how diversity can enhance our lives, and challenge us to take our work with the Enneagram out into the world to nurture and support personal and societal transformation.

For 20 years Chris worked as an international humanitarian, focusing on anti-human trafficking efforts. In 2012 he and his wife Phileena founded Gravity, a Center for Contemplative Activism, and between the two of them have published 6 books including Chris’s most recent, The Sacred Enneagram. His life was forever changed after he learned about the Enneagram nearly 20 years ago, and since then he has studied with some of the great living Enneagram masters including Father Richard Rohr, Russ Hudson, Marion Gilbert, Sandra Maitri, and Helen Palmer. Today he facilitates Enneagram workshops all over the world.
Claudio Naranjo

Dr. Claudio Naranjo will share what he has learned about the Enneagram in his journey through the Gurdjieff school, his participation in the series of conferences that Ichazo gave in 1969 to the Association of Psychologists of Chile, and finally with those he taught during the months they gathered in the Oasis of Azapa, near Arica, Chile in 1970.

He will also speak about the mysterious way in which Ichazo transmitted his specialty of “protoanalysis” and the way that he developed this body of knowledge during the years of his work with his first SAT groups in Berkeley between 1971-1974. And how he also continued secretly elaborating a method of self-knowing and worked on the virtues in Mexico and other Latin American countries until the international SAT school was finally born with its programs for the development of existential competencies, as well as its programs for educators, and the establishment of the Fundación. Claudio Naranjo’s mission is the transformation of education globally to overcome the patriarchal mind. And if there is time, Claudio may also speak about his books, especially the most recent and most complete which was just finished: “The Dramatis Personae in the Tragicomedy of Life,” which illustrates the 27 characters through literature and film.

Dr. Claudio Naranjo (Valparaiso, Chile, 1932) began his professional life as a psychiatrist in Chile, where he worked in the fields of Medical Anthropology and Personality, and also explored psychedelic therapy with various new substances. Then he became an early staff member of Esalen Institute. After the accidental death of his only son in the spring of 1970, a new phase began with a pilgrimage under the guidance of a spiritual teacher called Oscar Ichazo, which included a period of isolation in the desert near Arica, at the northern end of Chile. This seminal experience marked the true beginning of Naranjo’s contemplative life and of his feeling of inner guidance. Thereafter, he developed a synthesis of spiritual and therapeutic methods known as the SAT Program (Seekers After Truth), which includes the psychology of enneatypes, Buddhist meditation, spontaneous movement as a means of letting go, therapeutic theater, the re-elaboration of important life relationships including those in the early family and other elements, and which have been widely applied in many countries to personal development, therapeutic training, and to teacher education.

Once a Research Associate at the Berkeley UC Campus, he was a pioneer in the integration of therapy and meditation, and more generally, of therapy and spirituality. As a disciple and successor of Fritz Perls, he has become a worldwide reference for Gestalt therapy, and the University of Udine in Italy granted him an honorary doctorate in Education for his militancy for a transformation in education that would make education relevant to psycho-spiritual development and to the evolution of society. He was nominated in 2015 for the Nobel Peace Prize and he is the author of more than 30 books.
2019 IEA PRE-CONFERENCE DAY EVENT

Thursday, July 25 — 8:30am-4:30pm
East 1

PRE-CONFERENCE KEYNOTE:

Andrea Isaacs
In Every Cell of Your Body: Somatic Work and the Enneagram

The Pre-Conference Day will be keynoted by Andrea Isaacs, who will present In Every Cell of Your Body: Somatic Work and the Enneagram.

What is “somatic” work, how does it relate to the Enneagram, and why is this important? In this keynote address, you’ll hear how somatic work has evolved in the Enneagram field, how it can bring your teaching and other uses of the Enneagram alive in a new and vibrant way, and how it can be a key to fast, easy and lasting transformation. You’ll hear about the pioneers in combining these two disciplines and how somatic work is exploding in the transformational arena. Not just a “sit down lecture,” you will have a “somatic experience” of the Enneagram in your body.

Andrea Isaacs is one of the pioneers bringing somatic work to the Enneagram. After creating EnneaMotion (using movement to embody the Enneagram) in 1994, she learned that this body-based approach is about much more than the Enneagram. Her science background informed her about the neural pathways and how this work changes the brain and increases emotional intelligence (EQ). “EQ with Body Wisdom,” became a doorway for using the body to shift your inner state — old disempowering patterns that no longer serve you, to new empowering patterns that support living life as your “best and highest self.” She was co-founding editor-publisher of the Enneagram Monthly and faculty for the Enneagram Institute Professional training program since 1994. She has taught, coached and spoken on stages in 25 countries.

Cynthia Winton-Henry
The Life Transforming Body Wisdom TOOLS of Interplay with a very special welcome to recovering serious people

Play. Reflect. Gain Tools. Grow. Glow. If you are up for a little adventure, your tried and true guide, Cynthia Winton-Henry, co-founder of the 30-year-old global InterPlay practice, will happily unfold a time of personal enrichment and more. Your body, mind, heart, and spirit all get to play.

It’s magical to listen to the wisdom of our body and surprising to see how play can foster transformation. It’s often faster than working on things. Who knew? So many of us work extra hard, and focus attention on just a few limited senses. Perhaps this is why InterPlay is called a headwaters practice for those seeking social health. Social health affects individual bodies.

In this workshop you’ll explore practices that unlock wisdom and creativity by engaging the birthright practices— stories, movement, voice, connection and stillness. You’ll learn easy tools for helping clients and groups to shift from trauma and stress to well being in communities of diverse experiences. You’ll get plenty of time to notice and reflect each step of the way.

Along the way we’ll sneak in the core tools and creative methods successfully used in classrooms, spiritual community, organizations, therapy, activism, coaching, with marginalized populations, and in international bridge building including:

• Self-care techniques for personal and professional life
• Ways to lead life in more playful, life-giving, embodied ways
• New creative strategies to deal with life’s challenges
• Specific ways to create healthy relationships, group and family interaction.
The Engagement Committee is eager to welcome you and ensure you feel as engaged with others as you desire.

Check out the conversation starter napkins we provided at the welcome event – use them as a playful way to introduce yourself to someone new. Join our Facebook group page https://www.facebook.com/groups/343073589651388/ and interact before, during and after the conference. Post pictures and comments on all your social media using the hashtags #MYIEA, #IEA25. Share ideas and questions on the Engagement Wall or with committee members. We will be available to interact a half-hour prior to each day’s opening events – look for our silver scarves and Ennea-gager buttons. Each Friday-Saturday-Sunday morning, at 8:00 AM, join Nancy Markow for self-care – participate in easy stretches that will keep your body healthy throughout the conference and be inspired by an Enneagram based meditation. There will be two opportunities to meet new people over lunch and dinner on Friday.

We look forward to meeting you! We are here to answer your questions and make sure your conference experience is the best it can be.

Using Invisible Triangles in Business Applications of the Enneagram

Ginger Lapid-Bogda, PhD
Full bio  p. 38

The 3 triangles of the Enneagram — 9-3-6, 1-4-7 and 2-5-8 — are potent and profound. The 9-3-6 triangle is visible on the Enneagram symbol, while the other two triangles are not. However, an invisible line connects point 4 and 7 and another invisible line connects points 2 and 5. One way of understanding the significance of these 3 triangles is that the 9-3-6 triangle, for all of us no matter what our type, is about Being Awake, or the movement to awakened consciousness. The 1-4-7 triangle is about Being Whole, or the movement toward wholeness. The 2-5-8 triangle is about Being Alive, or the movement toward complete aliveness through full potency of the head, heart and body.

In this interactive and engaging session, you’ll learn the significance of these 3 triangles in organizational applications and engage in 9 different activities where you will experience their power. Through beautiful visuals, Rumi poems, evocative music, Enneagram map work, and a variety of stimulating interactions, you’ll understand the Enneagram symbol in a whole new way.

Although this program is designed for use in organizations, the concepts and activities can be used for both your own growth and in a variety of other settings.

The Map Of Consciousness as a Lens to Clear the Enneagram Mistyping Phenomena

Rania Nassar
Full bio  p. 39

Over 250,000 muscle testing calibrations, spanning 30 years of multiple research studies, conducted by The Institute for Spiritual Research, Inc., Dr. David Hawkins defined a range of values that correspond to levels of consciousness which include well-recognized attitudes and emotions. With a logarithmic scale of 1 to 1,000 Dr. Hawkins explains the classification and characteristics of these energy fields to make them easily comprehensible and useful in daily life through what he called the Map of Consciousness®.

The scale is dividing our human journey of consciousness into 17 Levels starting from Shame until Enlightenment.

The first eight levels on Hawkins scale are: Shame, Guilt, Apathy, Grief, Fear, Desire, Anger and Pride, that can be easily mistyped with the Enneagram 9 types. By learning this map we will be able to minimize the probability of mistyping ourselves & others. Also we will get a deeper understanding why people who belong to the same enneagram type and sub-type find themselves extremely different from each other due to their level of consciousness.

Although this program is designed for use in organizations, the concepts and activities can be used for both your own growth and in a variety of other settings.

Couples and the Enneagram

Michelle Joy, M.A., MFT
Full bio  p. 38

Are you a therapist or coach who helps couples? Or are you someone who would like to better understand and improve communication patterns in your own relationship?  When couples get stuck in distressing communication patterns together, they are often running up against the limitations of their Enneagram type.  The way couples relate to each other within their personality structure affects not only each partner, but also the couple’s relationship as a whole.

This session is a rich opportunity to become aware of how each Enneagram type’s style often shows up so that you can better understand your partner as well as learn how to bring your best self forward.

Through materials, teaching and group discussion, we will together understand:

- Common relationship habits that arise according to each Enneagram type.
- How moving to each type’s growth point can help couples shift distressing communication patterns.
- Useful strategies that help create successful relationships within each type.
- The development needed for each Enneagram type, supporting higher levels of health individually and within the relationship.
FRIDAY PROGRAM - JULY 26
MID AFTERNOON SESSIONS — 1:00PM-2:30PM

The Enneagram Epidemic: Making the Enneagram Go Viral

Tracy Baker-Lawrence
Full bio

We all know the Enneagram could radically change the world. But how do we spread the word? How do we create an epidemic making the Enneagram ‘contagious’? How do we make our message so powerful it can spur people to change?

Small, particular changes, carefully conceived and adeptly enacted, by the right people, can make huge positive consequences in the world. What if we could create a “Tipping Point” ...that magic moment when an idea “crosses a threshold, tips and spreads like wildfire” (Gladwell, 2013). There is clear evidence that small ideas can change the world. And we have at our disposal a huge idea, a powerful knowledge tool to increase understanding between people from all walks of life.

Therefore, it is critical we are thoughtful and strategic in how the Enneagram is introduced, taught and delivered. We have to learn to package/structure our Enneagram ‘message’ to have the maximum possible impact. This session will be educative, creative, interactive, and intends to inspire action. It will include:

- The facilitator’s experience of taking the Enneagram into numerous contexts, modifying delivery according to context, working with resistance, circumventing bias and encouraging change.
- Group and dyad work sharing our Enneagram contexts, how we introduce the Enneagram, the barriers and bias encountered, and collating what’s worked well.
- Research that outlines how we might create a Tipping Point to have the Enneagram go viral. Brainstorm what we can do to deliberately start an Enneagram world.

Taking It To The Street

Deborah Threadgill Egerton, PhD
Full bio

In this session, we will explore ways to bring the Enneagram into the arena of social justice and community advocacy through community service and collaborative action.

The Enneagram illuminates our capacity for insight into self and others. As we continue to study the Enneagram some may have the experience of questions that arise from within, “to what purpose am I continuing on this journey?” or “How does the Enneagram help me to bring my authentic self into alignment with healing my own wounds and to relieve the suffering of others?”

We are living in times that call for our inner strength and authentic voices to emerge. This may be the call to action that answers several questions.

- Is it probable that you can learn to be more aware of what you don’t know so that you “Do no harm”? Yes
- Can you find the inner strength, guidance and wisdom to re-enter a place where you have not felt welcome? Definitely
- Are there ways that your Enneagram type can help or hinder your intended contribution to heal societal impasses? Certainly
- Is it possible to knock on doors and to have what you offer be received without harm across differences? Absolutely

Discovering Your Soul Child

Joseph Benton Howell, PhD, MA
Full bio

Discovering Your Soul Child. Pablo Picasso said, “it took me four years to learn to paint like Raphael and a lifetime to paint like a child.” Picasso’s statement underscores the difficulty and ultimate importance of re-inhabiting our soul child.

A.H. Almaas and Sandra Maitri have referenced the soul child as the psychological structure sealed in our past who embodies our truest nature. What if we could access this deeply buried, unconditioned being? Through lecture, story, video presentations, small interactive groups, and specially designed exercises, participants learn how to access their inner child of the past ... and our purest soul qualities before the full emergence of ego.

Get ready for what many participants have described as “a life-shifting experience.” Yes, gradually you will privately and safely enter the space of your soul child. Many experience the exact sensations, wonder, perceptions, and emotions of their soul child, whose qualities were sealed in the past. Through inner-communication with our soul child, we experience presence. Implications of these powerful methods for personality integration and spiritual wholeness are explored as foundational, as we imagine the personal and collective future.
When Millennials express outrage about "microaggressions," one might wonder whether our culture is becoming stiflingly politically correct. However, we learn how our lack of awareness may be like back when no one questioned cigarette smoking inside offices, restaurants and airplanes. Microaggressions take their toll over a lifetime, leading to problems such as anxiety, lowered self-esteem and physical symptoms.

A 2018 McKinsey study reveals that 27% of men have their judgment questioned in their area of expertise. 26% of White women are addressed in a less-than professional way when serving in professional roles. 22% of Asian women are mistaken for someone at a much lower level. A whopping 42% of African American women must provide more evidence of their competence than others do.

This session delves into how microaggressions affect each panelist differently based on Enneagram type. For example, a Three might work harder to prove herself while a Four might blame himself. We’ll hear how panelists draw from strengths of their type to handle situations professionally and heal old wounds. Small groups discuss their own recollections of microaggressions and uncover the strengths of their own types to guide them to more rewarding interactions with others.

This session will cover the ins and outs of Enneagram Typing and 12 key points to consider in the process of discovery. It will bring to light important images, patterns, words and phrases that are hallmarks of type.

It will focus on how accurate typing leads to a greater understanding of personality diversity as the foundation needed to move forward as a global community that promotes compassion, and relationships with a capacity for radical change and transformation.

Once we discover the Enneagram, we love to type everyone we know but it can take time before we develop the critical self-awareness needed to accurately self-assess. In the interim, we can easily mistype others. Knowing what to look for can increase our ability to use the Enneagram as a tool for change.

Through lecture and in groups we will explore what constitutes type and 12 factors to consider in the typing process including: first impressions, energy, body language, stance, expressions, micro expressions, speech patterns, talk style, lexicon usage, tone, presentation, outlook, emotional intelligence, type and instinctual type.

With panels we will discuss the nuances of type previously unseen and share how the interventions of the correct type have led to more meaningful and satisfying relationships.

FRIDAY PROGRAM - JULY 26
LATE AFTERNOON SESSIONS — 3:00PM-4:30PM

Enneagram Prison Project: A Compassionate Approach to Healing Using the Enneagram

Susan Olesek, BA Sociology

With a clear vision for how the Enneagram could be taught in every jail and prison in the United States and in the world, Susan Olesek founded Enneagram Prison Project (EPP) in California in 2012. Since then, EPP has established programming in four Californian correctional facilities including San Quentin State Prison, and in Minnesota, Finland, Belgium, and soon to be in the UK and Australia.

Essential to EPP’s success in breaking into one of the most archaic institutions of America - the criminal justice system - is its fundamentally compassionate approach to how human beings grow and heal, starting with attachment. EPP uses the Enneagram as a system to remember what is “right” about us from our earliest conception and understands that the basic building blocks of personality - our egoic distortion of who we truly are - begins in childhood.

In this presentation, IEA attendees will participate in an experiential demonstration of fundamental modules of EPP’s 12-week curriculum as currently taught to in-custody students. Together, a diverse panel of EPP’s global team, made up of certified EPP Guides from Belgium, Australia, the UK, and the United States (including those formerly incarcerated) will demonstrate key methodologies, philosophy, exercises, and films currently used in the EPP classroom. EPP Guides will explain how to recognize the “Divine Spark” in everyone, how personality forms, the explicit role Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) play in the formation of brain architecture, and why our past has such a powerful influence on our capacity to be in the present.

Beyond Duality: An Invitation to Experiencing the Intersection of our Infinite and Finite Nature

Roxanne Howe-Murphy, EdD

You are invited to learn about and engage with the EnneaCross(TM), an evolving framework, now in development for over six years, which supports the spiritual journey.

The EnneaCross(TM) is an integration of two powerful, ancient symbols, the Enneagram and the cross-cultural cross. Individually these symbols each illuminate deep wisdom and give us a unique framework for moving toward less self as we have known it. When integrated into one symbol, the non-duality of interconnectedness and wholeness is revealed. Using presentation, somatic work, discussion and inquiry, explore the dynamic relationship, that push-pull, of the horizontal (Finite) and the vertical (Infinite) dimensions of life.

We'll explore four intersections (called 'portals') of these dimensions that are informed by the EnneaCross(TM) and that appear to be universal in the human condition. As we open up each of these portals, each which ultimately brings us into deeper contact with the heart, you can select one to practice applying to an area of your own life. You may discover blocks and potential openings, and perhaps even experience some degree of surrender and reconciliation.

Irony of Ironies: Relational Repetitive Dynamics

Jerry Wagner, PhD

One of the reasons we concoct our defensive strategies is to protect us from the hurts, embarrassments, diminishments, sensitivities, et.al. that we experienced sometime in our life. The irony of this approach is that it brings about the very thing we are trying to avoid. The solution becomes the problem. For example, if a ONE (or any other type for that matter) is hurt by unjustified (of course) criticism, they will deploy all their defenses to prove they are right and, in the process, may inadvertently hurt, embarrass, diminish the other. Now the accused other must defend themselves by criticizing the ONE to prove that they are right and the ONE is wrong. Thus begins the shoot out at the O.K. Corral. To keep our defensive drama going, we need to unconsciously solicit accomplices, fellow actors and actresses. Others get roped in unwittingly to play out the scenario, thereby ensuring a long run on Broadway or whatever street we live on.

This workshop will provide some guidance as to how this happens with all nine types followed by type-alike groups to explore how this occurs in their lives and what might be some alternate adaptive strategies. Each group will then share their insights and action plans with the whole group.
The Roots of Inner Work:  How the Original Spiritual Context of the Enneagram Can Serve Humanity’s 21st Century Challenges

Panelists:  Hameed Ali, Jessica Dibb, Russ Hudson, and Helen Palmer

In this groundbreaking event, four long-term teachers of inner work will come together for the first time to share their own experiences about using the Enneagram for authentic development—what has worked and what has not. They will discuss and explore their own process of learning through their practices and teachings and share some of their cutting-edge understandings. They will also look at the contexts and methods that have provided real awakening and maturation for them and for their students.

Join us for:
- A lively and honest conversation about the promise and challenges of working with the Enneagram toward real awakening and embodiment of consciousness, with personal tales and teachings
- Dialogue and question and answer periods with community
- An exploration of practices used in concert with the Enneagram to be aware of our own psychological patterns, check spiritual bypassing, and open to greater presence
- An inquiry into how the Enneagram could support collective presence, collective creativity, collective wisdom to address critical challenges and opportunities

Foundations for Creating a Great Team Culture to Advance Individual, Team, and Organizational Growth

Diane Ring

What does it take to build a cohesive and effective team that is agile, innovative and equipped to grow quickly in today’s ever changing business climate? In this session you will learn about how one of Inc. Magazine’s, “Inc. 5000” list of America’s fastest-growing private companies, has been using the Enneagram to develop their leaders and teams to support their rapid growth.

Awareness of their Enneagram styles and team dynamics has guided this team to grapple with challenges such as limited focus, time, and resources in pursuit of disrupting their industry with innovative new solutions. While there is no one recipe for successful teamwork, we will explore the insightful role the Enneagram can play in working with high achieving teams to:
- Develop a common language to expedite communication and enhance how to relate to each other
- Increase trust and empathy through deeper understanding of team member’s motivations
- Plan for harnessing healthy tension and resolving differences stemming from competing values
- Better utilize diverse gifts within the team
Children are our Future: Typing Children

Deborah A. Ooten, PhD and Cathryn Siegel Hudson, BS

In workshops all over the world we are commonly asked by parents/grandparents, what about my daughter, my son? This happens in our corporate training sessions and in small personal coaching sessions.

When, exactly, does type begin to form? And why or how does it become set? Is there a specific age where we should begin to explore this with our children, our grandchildren? Do we, can we, influence type?

You know who you are. You found the beauty, power and mystery of enneagram. And, because you are here, doing the work, you are a beautiful, well-rounded, loving being. Wouldn't it be wonderful to start your children on this journey of self-discovery and understanding?

This workshop will help you explore these questions and how to best approach your child about the enneagram. Additionally, prior to our workshop, we encourage parents to have their children go to www.N-1Games.com and take the character test. Each child is assigned a unique, gender specific avatar that relates to their type. Adults are welcome to take the character test too.

This workshop will be experiential with discussion and presentation.

Love and Relationship in Three Centers - Body, Heart & Mind

Peter O'Hanrahan

Through lecture, inner practice, type groups and conversation we’ll explore how we express our love through each of our three centers and how our type structure can get in the way.

Love is easy to say but hard to define. It means different things to different people. Perhaps the most common meaning is that love is a feeling in the heart. Yet there is much more to "love" than our feelings. According to Mr. Gurdjieff, love can be expressed from each center with its own quality and result. Love and relationship from the body emphasizes doing - taking action on behalf of others while connecting through three instincts. Love from the heart is about feelings; empathy, compassion, devotion. Love from the mind is about seeing the other person for who they really are and reflecting their potential. At times the centers work together, but not always.

Understanding the role of our three centers show us how we love and how we want to be loved. Knowing our enneagram type helps us work with our ego defenses, our projections and idealizations, our emotional habits, and shows us how we can develop our capacity to love through the body, heart and mind.

Moving the Race Conversation Forward with the Enneagram

Debbi Horton, M.A. and Rev. Tyler Sit

In contrast to the belief that racism is a personal choice, we will explore racism as a collective, often subconscious, reality that affects literally every person who grew up in Western cultures. Like our Enneagram types, racism tells a story of who we are that is, in reality, incomplete. We will explore how each type can fall into the trap of perpetuating existing power structures, and how each type can leverage their strengths for positive change.

Throughout the workshop we will engage video excerpts of interviews with people of color who have worked with the Enneagram. We believe that this work, for both people of color and white people, is not only possible but essential for personal and communal healing. For participants of color, this workshop will give language and tools for engaging internalized oppression and healing wounds. For white participants, this workshop will increase awareness of unintentional reinforcement of oppression and options for choosing a new way.
In various letters to the early churches, the Apostle Paul wrote about the nine gifts of the Holy Spirit. These extraordinary spiritual gifts, often termed "charismatic gifts," map onto the Enneagram.

Specifically, the nine gifts of the Spirit are the word of wisdom, the word of knowledge, increased faith, the gifts of healing, the gift of miracles, prophecy, the discernment of spirits, diverse kinds of tongues, and interpretation of tongues.

Questions we will consider: What are contemporary and more secular understandings of these nine gifts? How do these ancient Christian teachings illuminate the gifts that each Enneagram personality type particularly offers when operating at higher levels of integrated functioning? How can we lean into our gifts as path toward integration and happiness? How do the nine gifts relate with and support each other interdependently?

This session draws upon Christian wisdom, while remaining open to everyone, regardless of religious or faith background.

The Enneagram, as we know it today, is all about personhood. We use it to dissect personality, explain our psychodynamics and try to celebrate diversity.

One of the IEA Founders will tell his Enneagram “story”. As one of the early individuals to learn the “psychological model” of the Enneagram, developed and taught by Claudio Naranjo, MD, he studied a revolutionary system to explain human behavior. A year of graduate study formed the basis for workshops, notebooks and the first-published textbook on the theory. Decades of workshops and international travel created a scientific database. Collaboration reinforced the diversity and creativity. The theory evolved and found new niches.

During this session you will share the exciting events in the early development and dispersal of the Enneagram theory of personality. We’ll look at the original thinkers and authors, share the birth pangs of a movement and our IEA. The session will compare and contrast the various approaches to the theory. Participants will discuss the merits of some of the approaches … with an eye to future trends.

The Enneagram delights and confounds its students. It’s challenging and frustrating. By taking this journey through its five decades of development, participants will gain a richer appreciation for its true value.

This session is more memoir than history. It’s a living story of people, personality and promise.
When 360 Degrees of Feedback are not Enough; or Just Too Much!

360 degree feedback is a widely-used process designed to help people identify the development areas of which they may be unaware. Furthermore, different vendors have identified their own proprietary formula for what they tout comprises an effective leader.

In this highly-interactive session, we will draw from the collective expertise of the coach participants to identify their best practices and biggest challenges in this realm. We will review the latest entry in this race, the Full Circle Group’s Leadership Circle Profile, and identify how the Enneagram was used in its creation. We will then map out different companies and their values to identify their culture and how “executive presence” is measured according to it. We will then identify how we can use the Enneagram with clients who have taken the LCP to help them identify the clearest, most impactful path for their development and success in their organizations, based on their Enneagram strengths and the expectations of the organizations in which they work.

This workshop is ideal for executive coaches and career coaches using or aspiring to use the Enneagram in a business setting. It will be in the form of 85% collaborative group work/report-outs, and 15% lecture.

Positive Psychology and Enneagram Strengths-Based Framework

Exploring cutting edge research in the field of Positive Psychology and Neuroscience, it is imperative to balance the Enneagram of Personality with a strengths based approach.

The Enneagram stands proudly in the spiritual tradition, brought into the professional world through psychology and developed into the modern Enneagram we know today. Generations of researchers and practitioners have added contributions and continued the enhancement of this framework. This has shifted the Enneagram from being a map of fixation and dysfunction, to a strengths-based framework. Rather than asking –“what makes us suffer?”, this approach asks –“what makes us strong? What makes us succeed?” This presentation is grounded in science and practical application for individuals and practitioners.

- Explore the results of recent research conducted with thousands of Enneagram users, linking the Types to universal strengths frameworks and validating the Enneagram against established norms.
- We will share case studies of Enneagram strengths-based interventions in organisations, and coaching interventions. Demonstrating best practices and results.
- A group exploration of Enneagram-based strengths to get active and share your insights. Explore personal strengths through a new lens, and link the Enneagram Types to other constructs.
Personality as a Path to Better Relationships: Applying the Enneagram to Create Conscious Connections

Beatrice Chestnut, PhD, MFT and Amy Ream

The best foundation for the future is the ability to create conscious relationships; whether they are intimate partnerships, work colleagues, or friendships. Today we face a crisis of connection. In political gridlock, high rates of suicide and addiction, and wars around the world, we see increasingly entrenched problems stemming from our inability to connect deeply and compassionately with each other.

The presenters will discuss ways the Enneagram can be used to achieve more conscious communication between people to enhance mutual understanding and stronger connections. After talking about the strengths and challenges of the 9 personalities when relating to others, in terms of center of intelligence, type, and subtype factors, they will demonstrate how we can work through relationship issues by asking for volunteers from the audience to share real examples of relational dilemmas. Each volunteer will describe a relationship challenge they are having with someone, choose a person of that type from the audience to play the role of their partner or friend, and with the help of the two presenters as real-time coaches, work through an actual relationship issue. Through this live demonstration, we will explore the ways Enneagram insights can clarify relationship-building conversations and support more conscious connections.

Queering the Enneagram: LGBTQIA Inclusion in the Enneagram Community

Abi Robins, C-IAYT, 500RYT

This workshop is designed to equip the members of Enneagram community to affect positive societal change by promoting and expanding LGBTQIA inclusiveness throughout the community.

Austin-based Yoga Therapist and Enneagram teacher Abi Robins will provide an introduction to the world of LGBTQIA studies that invites people to ask questions and explore in an open and welcoming environment. Using tools and practices common to many Enneagram enthusiasts, as well as techniques drawn from the world of yoga therapy, participants will have the opportunity to examine the cultural attitudes influencing the topic of LGBTQIA inclusion as well as to better understand their own motivations and biases around the subject. Guided meditation, writing exercises, and group work will help participants develop the understanding that will lead the Enneagram community into aligned action and effective support for those who fall under the Queer umbrella.

Participants will also be given examples of new ways to think of and teach the system that will make the Enneagram more accessible to the LGBTQIA community. Participants will walk away with immediately actionable steps to enrich the Enneagram community through LGBTQIA inclusion and position it to effect positive change throughout our world.

Contact with the Animal Body as Foundation for Awakening

Julie Harris and John Luckovich

Transformation begins with knowing ourselves as consciousness occupying an animal body. Historically, spiritual traditions have often portrayed our spiritual nature and our material nature as at odds with one another, with the body objectified as a distraction from spiritual pursuits. This disconnection between the needs of our animal form and the development of our consciousness is at the source of much human conflict and distress, affecting how we relate to ourselves, each other, and the planet.

Conscious contact with the Instinctual Drives is a way to help heal this split. Each drive has a distinct mode of influencing the quality and shape of our attention and our motivation to act. Becoming more skillful with how these drives operate within us is key to using their powerful energy for awakening human potential.

This session features a series of explorations that will take participants out of their concepts about the Instincts and into a direct experience of the energy and aliveness that characterizes their intelligence. Participants will learn to sense and observe themselves more deeply, and will leave with practical exercises to continue to explore their relationship with each of the drives.
Type and its Inner Witness: Our Intuitive Faculty of Perception

Helen Palmer and Marion Gilbert

It seems only natural to recognize the patterns of our mind and to hear the self-reports of people who see the world differently. Yet that simple turn of attention that self-reflection requires marks a giant step in our evolving consciousness.

The first turn reveals our personality structure. We can recognize thoughts as they appear and tell them to someone else. We can notice emotions as they arise and describe them to others. We can also observe somatic contractions that govern the flow of our life force. Self-reflection is the bedrock of personal change. Self-reflection reveals our Enneagram Type.

In the language of tradition, self-reflection joins two different levels of consciousness. The subjective level of our brain’s conditioned neuropathways and the pure consciousness of an Inner Witness.

In the vocabulary of practice, we relax attention to the patterns passing through our mind - thoughts, emotion, sensations — objects of attention that are structured according to type. But the pure consciousness that notes those patterns as they arise makes prayer and meditation possible.

From the viewpoint of awakening we can inwardly recognize our own type structure. We can relax cognitive “neuromarkers” such as Doubt (6) Judgement (1) and Envy (4) as they arise and before they fully engage. We can learn to release the inner passions that drive outer behavior and relieve somatic contractions that signal type distress. These capacities of mind initiate next stages of development. For who but ourselves can relax the conditioned patterns that drive us instead of acting them out?

The Enneagram is like an adventurer’s treasure map. We can become the mindful hero of our own story, by being aware of the journey that lies ahead of us.

The facilitator will present an analogy between Joseph Campbell’s Hero’s journey and the Enneagram invitation, that is: to accept a personal development quest, that requires to travel through life's events. As most fictional heroes and superheroes do in pop culture and literature, everyone can be faced with: a calling, a threshold to cross, allies and enemies, challenges and conundrums, masters and mentors, elixirs and treasures, and so on. The Enneagram helps putting into light one's very own characteristics, superpowers and shadows. The map that will be presented aims at self-awareness, mindfulness, acceptance and wisdom about one's own development and self-mastery balance. In the jungle of the self-growth universe, ego traps, myths and misrepresentations can lead to giving up the quest and discourage even the bravest, faced with hardship and obstacles.

This session's purpose is to offer an alternative and concrete model to empower each and everyone to dare being the hero of their own story.

We are all Recovering from something; a broken relationship, overspending, or even dysfunctional family dynamics; we are all hooked on our patterns of thinking, feeling and behaving. Most of us think of Recovery within the context of alcohol or drug abuse, and while this is true, the reality is we are all recovering from something and seeking to become our highest and best self.

The Twelve Step Process of Recovery is a life long practice that guides through a conscious path of descent and helps us clear up the wreckage of our past. Each Step advocates an action to be taken focused on the practice of self-remembering, self-examination or self-observation. In this workshop we will focus on the Fourth Step, which calls for us to make a Personal Inventory to reveal how our survival instincts -- our “Self-Will run riot” create havoc in our life.

Through the lens of interpersonal relationships, you will be guided to create and then work through your own Personal Inventory. Recognizing and coming to terms with the primitive power of our Instinctual patterns, we will explore and set personal commitments for simple behavioral changes to shift our level of consciousness and enhance our relationships.

The Enneagram is a powerful tool that unlocks, for each of us, who we are as well as how we get in our own way. For people in deep poverty this unlocking can be literally life giving. This tool of self-awareness provides the critical foundation for other key developments in a person's movement out of poverty and is ultimately a force for social justice and societal change in our communities.

Come hear our story and experiences creating and bringing the unique Enneagram workshop, "Grit to Great(er)”, to men and women in situational and generational poverty as part of a larger workforce development project. You will be introduced to the team of collaborators who fashioned this workshop. We will share our story and the key components of the workshop that have made the deepest impact on the participants. Through video you will hear from several of these individuals as they share the transformative power that "Grit to Great(er)" has had in their lives. Finally, you will hear about the practical learning that has occurred for us over the years offering this workshop. There will be opportunities throughout the session for Q&A.
The presentation provides a portrayal of the Sufi 99 divine attributes, or names of Allah, and the how they correlate to the 9 Enneagram types at the different stages of the development of the self as presented by the Sufis.

Through reflections, interviews, and surveys, this presentation sheds deeper and more profound light on the source of the essential qualities, the deeper meanings and drives behind the types, and how understanding this connection between types and divine attributes provides a map for psychological growth and spiritual awakening.

More than ever before, information about the Enneagram is widely available. Newcomers, while initially excited by what the system can reveal, often become discouraged by the plethora of conflicting theories to be found on social media platforms. Experience shows that many of these theories can be useful, but only if we learn certain ways to orient ourselves to the material. An inner turn of the heart is required to transform interesting information into fuel for our authentic development. But while the information about the types and the Enneagram itself are easily transmitted through written or video form, the inner content, the shift of attention required to bring the full power of the teachings to fruition is best learned in real time with other people present. Gurdjieff, the original purveyor of the Enneagram system in the modern world, spoke of the necessity of developing both knowledge and being for real transformation to occur. In this session, we will experientially explore this shift of attention and heart and see how this facilitates our work with the knowledge of the types.

Organizational culture is a collection of attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors that serve as an implicitly agreed-upon way of solving problems within the organization. It is rooted in systems of values; biases toward achieving a sense of stability or satisfaction that are often so deeply embedded in us or the company that we may not even be aware of them. Changing organizational culture can only be accomplished when those values are made explicit and change is implemented in a way that allows people to satisfy their implicit behavior while changing their behavior.

The three Instinctual Biases (Preserving, Navigating, and Transmitting) are implicit systems of values that can cause resistance to change. This program will describe how the instinctual biases cause resistance to change at individual, team, and organizational levels and how an understanding of them can help to remove that resistance. It will explore how a team or company can take on an "instinctual culture" that can create organizational blind spots and make some team members feel alienated and excluded.

Calling on their vast experience of working with this model in organizations around the world in this highly interactive program, Mario and Maria Jose will share their tools and tactics for helping clients use this understanding to create change in their organization.
Re-write Your Own Story! Understanding Personality through Storytelling, Poetry, and Myth

Karen Van Zino, M.D.  Full bio  p. 43

In this experiential session we will use the framework of the Enneagram to explore with stories our gifts, challenges, and doorways to growth. Students will be guided to create and play with storytelling as we mine themes present in stories, myths and poetry. We’ll have the opportunity to experience oral storytelling and short writing exercises as well as expression through art and/or drama to playfully understand ourselves and others. No experience in anything is necessary. Come re-write your own story!

The Trouble With Typing: Ways to Misuse, Misunderstand and Distort the Enneagram

Tom Condon  Full bio  p. 35

As you use the Enneagram now and in the future - whether you are a beginner or an experienced user of the system - there is a limiting mentality that you may fall into without realizing it, leading you to "go wrong with confidence."

Symptoms of this include: seeing individuals as only their E-type, believing an Enneagram style is only a set of limitations, mistaking someone's outer behavior for their inner Enneagram style, seeing an Enneagram type - and therefore a person - as a thing.

In this workshop we will explore and experience these distinctions and more. If you are new to the Enneagram you will find many helpful tips to be mindful of as you continue to learn and grow.

Enneagram veterans will find reminders that help them use the system in a deeper more meaningful way. The goal is to use the Enneagram more respectfully, accurately and usefully.

Flex Your Enneagram Muscles: EQ with Body Wisdom and Neuroscience

Andrea Isaacs, MFA  Full bio  p. 38

How much and how little you have the gifts, and challenges of ALL the types can be as enlightening as discovering your core type. Your “Enneagram Blueprint” is like an MRI of your personality that impacts you to either empower you and lift you up, or disempower you, creating unnecessary and repeating struggle and challenge.

In this session, you will flex your Enneagram muscles, and literally step into the shoes of each type. You will experience:

- how type shows up in your body,
- how to listen to your body's wisdom, and
- shift your body's energy when needed so you can have more of the gifts and less of the challenges of each type.

Learn how to shift limiting patterns to empowering patterns. Brain Lab research with Dario Nardi validated that this work changes the brain. It increases your emotional intelligence (EQ) so that you can have ease in the face in challenging people and situations, more fulfilling relationships, greater success and more happiness. (To get your Enneagram Blueprint, go to: EQQuiz.com)
In an increasingly changing and agile world, with growing multiculturalism, it is important that parents raise children with high emotional, social and cultural intelligence. It is crucial to future-proof our children against getting stuck in habits of thinking, feeling and behaving when a more flexible approach is called for.

When parents develop a greater awareness of themselves through the Enneagram, they are not only doing something good for themselves, they are educating their children to understand other people with differing points of view.

Participants will leave this session with a renewed sense of confidence about their parenting approach and a range of strategies that will create the foundation for their children to flourish and become the leaders of tomorrow.

In this interactive and dynamic session, you’ll explore the nine types greatest parenting strengths and challenges and how to apply different strategies to maximise your positive traits, minimise your negative traits and allow your child to flourish into their best self.

The nine types will be unpacked to discover the causes of stress as a parent and what enhances well-being. This enables you to build a deeper connection, mutually loving and respectful relationships, and develop high functioning families as foundations for tomorrow.

At the triadic intersection of conscious community, the Enneagram, and contemplative practice, a sacred space can be created for not only catalyzing personal growth and spiritual awakening but also for living a transformative way of life.

In this interactive session, you’ll learn how to facilitate circles of trust among individuals with varying spiritual backgrounds. You’ll discover how these facilitated circles are rendered “safe” and trustworthy via group agreements that include confidentiality, no “cross talk,” no interrupting others, and no unsolicited advice-giving. Additionally, you’ll gain insight on how those sacred circles can be deeply informed by Enneagram teachings in order to create an Enneagram-literate community that is increasingly self aware and compassionate. Finally, you’ll learn how incorporating contemplative practices, such as centering prayer (aka “Divine Therapy”) and welcoming prayer, into the community gathering supports the healing and transformation of every person involved.

In this participatory session, you’ll have the opportunity to not only to learn about but also ENGAGE in a Contemplative Practice & the Enneagram (aka CPE) (model) practice group. This will include a time of meditation, facilitated group sharing, and an opportunity for debriefing your experience.
The IEA Conference Scholarship Fund was created in an effort to provide individuals from around the world an opportunity to further their Enneagram education, along with their personal or professional development. These scholarships are intended to broaden and help diversify participation in the conference and ensure inclusivity in our community as well as ensure the future of our Enneagram community by having strong and diverse representation and roots.

The IEA Conference has been described as “life-changing” by many attendees. Scholarship recipients have the opportunity to attend conference workshops, meet and learn from IEA members and experience an Enneagram community they may not have in their area.

Through the generous donations of our members and supporters, we raised over $25,000. This support enabled us to grant scholarships to 30 people from 6 different countries to attend this conference! Thank you to everyone who contributed to make this happen!

While we were delighted and grateful to be able to provide these scholarships, we know there are so many more qualified candidates from around the world. The vision of the IEA is “a world in which the Enneagram is widely understood and constructively used.” To fulfill this vision we know we must hold the door open for under-served communities.

We need your help to grow the IEA Conference Scholarship Fund. We simply can’t do it without you. Your support will make a real, lasting impact in the lives of the recipients and their communities.

Please consider making a tax-deductible* donation (large or small) to the conference scholarship fund. Thank you in advance for your support.

Sincerely,

Bart Wendell, Montse Fernandez, Brian Mitchell-Walker

IEA Accreditation serves as a mark of excellence for teachers and professionals, training programs and schools. Accreditation lets clients, students and others in the international Enneagram community know that a certain standard of quality and level of experience in understanding, teaching and using the Enneagram professionally has been achieved. It also signifies that the accredited individual or program has committed to adhering to the IEA's Ethical Guidelines and Code of Ethics. Participation in the IEA's Accreditation program reinforces to the public that the IEA is a self-regulating community that maintains a high level of standards for teaching and communication of the Enneagram system while supporting the proliferation of multiple perspectives and ways of using the Enneagram ethically and respectfully.

CATEGORIES OF IEA ACCREDITATION

IEA Accredited Professional (AP)

The book “Eneagrama y poder personal” published by Mac Graw Hill is built on the work of María Julieta Balart, Spanish executive coach. She created a coaching tool, combining Enneagram types and her own model to achieve self-realization: “Las claves del poder personal ®.” This method offers a simple and effective road map, that accelerates the coaching process to help the manager become the best version of himself and a leader who works on specific skills developed in the model: coherence, self-esteem, empathy, proactivity, self-motivation and maturity.

Happy 25th Anniversary, IEA!

THE NARRATIVE ENNEAGRAM (TNE) has been with you since the beginning!

Two IEA founders – Helen Palmer and the late David Daniels, MD, began our Enneagram Professional Training Program, now the longest running Enneagram school, in 1988. Over the decades, we have evolved to become a dynamic, educational nonprofit dedicated to transforming lives and creating a more compassionate world.

Grounded in the Narrative Tradition, our programs offer an interactive exploration of the Enneagram through inquiry with panelists sharing their personal stories and insights, making our teachings powerful and relevant across generations. Whether you’re a newcomer or lifelong learner, we welcome you to join us and share your story!

“Creative imagery that captures the essence of you.”

“From the first paragraph of the Preface, you know Rosemary Hurwitz is on a mission to clearly explain the Enneagram and how you might incorporate its wisdom for your own personal healing.

Throughout the book she masterfully tells a human story of each of the 9 types in the Enneagram model. Don’t know what number you are? Take the short quiz at the end of the book to see what is your main way of being in the world, so you then can have some insight for your own healing.

You will remember how this book opened you to who you are and who you might become.
